DONATIONS AND FUNDRAISING

PEOPLE KEEP DONATING TO THE APPEAL

The Christchurch Earthquake Appeal is one of the few dedicated earthquake relief charities that remains open and with funds available, and throughout the past year it has continued to receive donations each month. It is heartening to see that the people of Christchurch are not forgotten nearly two and a half years after the February 2011 earthquakes, with $2.6 million pledged or received in the past year.

This continued generosity is enabling the Trustees to fund more projects and it is a privilege to have funds remaining to help such a wide variety of community projects.

Canterbury continues to recover and Trustees are aware of needs still to be addressed that are only now reaching the stage of seeking funding.

Since its establishment 27 February 2011 until 30 June 2013, the Appeal has raised more than $100.39 million in pledged and received funds, of which $5.51 million is pledged for specific purposes or projects.

DIRECTED DONATIONS

THANK YOU TO ALL OUR DONORS

A number of large donations to the Appeal were directed for a specific purpose. The Trust keeps regular contact with these generous donors, and is very grateful for their support, which has made many projects possible during 2012/13.

American New Zealand Association (ANZA) donated $500,000 from general fundraising events across the USA and donations from individuals, to assist children in Canterbury. In 2012/13 ANZA's donation helped Freeville School in North New Brighton, University of Canterbury's outreach programme for Pacific students, and Cholmondeley Children's Home.

An anonymous donor donated $5 million to be directed to projects helping children and young people, particularly in the eastern suburbs of Christchurch. In 2012/13 this helped provide water attractions at the new Christchurch City Council Recreation and Sports Centre in the eastern suburbs, and a new youth and community centre for Aranui.

This generous $5 million donation is now fully allocated to projects:

- › $534,000 towards funding additional staff and programmes and repairing a youth hall in east Christchurch via Youth Alive Trust.
- › $343,000 to provide renovations and operational costs for a replacement youth health centre in central Christchurch run by Korowai Youth Well-Being.
- › $388,980 to provide more Kiwisport programmes and support other sports clubs from the Linfield Cultural Recreational Sports Centre.
- › $40,000 helped more than 4,000 children from 62 primary and intermediate schools perform at the Christchurch Primary Schools Cultural Festival held September 2011.
- › $100,000 granted directly to Linwood College.
- › $500,000 towards a new youth and community centre for Aranui.
- › $3,094,020 towards water attractions at an aquatic centre for the eastern suburbs.

BNP Paribas donated $100,000. In 2012/13 this helped to repair earthquake-damaged tennis courts.

John Griffin of Blue Ridge Capital donated $510,000. In 2012/13 this helped to provide portable digital services and software for 11 primary schools in the eastern suburbs.

NZCT (New Zealand Community Trust) donated $5 million for sport and recreation projects. In 2012/13 NZCT's donation helped: Upgrade facilities at Jellie Park pool; repair earthquake-damaged tennis courts and netball courts; repair and strengthen the Christchurch School of Gymnastics building; provide floodlighting for football at Avonhead Park; repair and rebuild Kaiapoi's Cure Boating Club building.

SKY Television pledged $1 million over five years towards sport and recreation projects particularly for school-aged children. In 2012/13 $200,000 was granted to football field repairs at Garrick Park in Christchurch.

Southern Trust donated $1.4 million towards sport and recreation projects. In 2012/13 this helped repair earthquake damaged tennis courts at North Beach Tennis Club.

The United Kingdom Christchurch Earthquake Appeal Trust (the UK Trust) was set up following the 22 February 2011 earthquake by interested expatriate New Zealanders and the New Zealand High Commission in London, to allow UK donors to help Cantabrians rebuild their lives and their communities. It raised approximately $2 million dollars to assist Canterbury, both directly and through other charities. In 2012/13 its donations helped: Provide portable digital services and software for 11 primary schools in the eastern suburbs; repair approximately 100 homes of uninsured and vulnerable people via Addington Action; provide temporary community centres in Belfast and Opawa; pay for operating costs of temporary swimming pools; repair earthquake-damaged tennis courts and netball courts.

Vodafone Foundation Canterbury Fund. Vodafone donated $2 million ($1 million from the Vodafone Group Foundation and $1 million from Vodafone New Zealand) and this was matched with $2 million from the Christchurch Earthquake Appeal Trust to create the “Canterbury Fund”. The aim is to make a positive, long-term difference in Canterbury by supporting grassroots organisations that are addressing earthquake-related needs in their own communities. In 2012/13, 54 groups received funding from the Vodafone Foundation Canterbury fund towards a wide range of projects including cycling tracks, rebuilding ropes courses and counselling services benefitting many Canterbury community and youth facilities.

At 30 June 2013 the following pledges remained committed to the following projects:

$9.2 million towards rebuilding the Christchurch Arts Centre Clock Tower and the College Hall:

- › Aotearoa Foundation pledged $5 million
- › Fletcher Building pledged $4 million
- › Blue Ridge Capital pledged $200,000.

Infratil Limited/Z Energy pledged $1 million to repair the Wilding Park tennis centre.

Vodafone Chief Executive Russell Stanners, Appeal Trustee Dr Rod Carr and Appeal Trust Advisory Board member Ros Burdon.

Vodafone representative Jamie Cairns, Hon Chris Tremain, Ravil Atlas and Celia Stewart of Christchurch School of Music.

Donations in kind during 2012/13

Bell Gully pledged $200,000 in cash and $200,000 in pro bono legal services in 2011 to the Christchurch Earthquake Appeal Trust to help with rebuilding Christchurch. Approximately $115,022 of pro bono legal fees remains available to the Appeal Trust as at 30 June 2013.

KPMG pledged to provide audit and accounting services on a pro bono basis for the duration of the Trust. On the expectation that the Trust will have a life of ten years and the annual value of the services provided is expected to be $25,000-$30,000 the donation totals $250,000-$300,000. In the year to 30 June 2013 the value of audit services provided is $22,000.
